DETAILED ACTION

Obvious Double Patenting

1. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

2. Claims 1-12 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-14 of U.S. Patent No. 6,371,644. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because they both include a flexible package comprising a continuous web of substantially constant thickness packaging material and a discrete strip of substantially constant thickness flexible material, said strip having length and width, said strip width defining the strip ends, said strip length having top and bottom edges and being substantially greater than said strip width, said strip being secured to said packaging material along the strip top edge and being substantially unsecured along its bottom edge.

Claim Rejections – 35 USC § 103(a)

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Griesbach et al. (U.S. 4,823,961).

Griesbach discloses a reclosable flexible package having a reclosable seal with interlocking closure strips, where the strips are adjacent and parallel to and extending substantially the length of one edge of the layered film of the packaging material (column 2, lines 26-50). Griesbach does not show that the packaging material has constant thickness and width as in instant claim 1. However, such features are properties which can be easily determined by one of ordinary skill in the art. With regard to the limitation of the thickness and width, absent a showing of unexpected results, it is obvious to modify the conditions of a composition because they are merely the result of routine experimentation. The experimental modification of prior art in order to optimize operation conditions (e.g. thickness and width) fails to render claims patentable in the absence of unexpected results. All of the aforementioned limitations are optimizable as they directly affect the durability of the packaging material. As such, they are optimizable. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to make the flexible packaging material with the limitations of the thickness and width since it has been held that discovering an optimum value of a result effective variable involves only routine skill in the art. In re Boesch, 617 USPQ 215 (CCPA 1980).

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Griesbach et al. (U.S. 5,050,736) is relevant because it discloses a reclosable package comprising interlocking closure strips (abstract). Additionally, Williams (U.S. 5,058,761) discloses reclosable packages having a strip and flexible lid (abstract).
